

My precious one, are you ready to come closer to me, your creator?

My precious one I can see you gaze around, observing your surroundings.

Longing to make sense of things and see change, yet feeling this is beyond you.

I can sense your heartache.

Remember things are not always as they seem at first, your perception is different to mine.

I see the big picture across the whole span of time.

My precious one stay in my presence to reflect on things,

Are you aware who or what you are being shaped by?

I invite you to be immersed in my love and dwell in my words,

let them sink deep into your heart and soul,

Penetrate to the depths of your inner being.

Will you let me guide you, give you light on your path through life?

My precious one, you are dear to me, I really value who you are.

I ask you to consider valuing things by my standards,

rather than conforming to the pattern of this world.

It is my passion to do a work of transformation in your life,

I need your cooperation, to be obedient to my calling,

To make changes in your life, to renew your mind.

I have given you the ability to make choices in life,

I desire you to intentionally choose to grow closer to me,

To know my voice and leading more clearly.

To be aware of things that distract you from my love and peace.

My precious one it is my longing that you recognise when you come to the end of yourself,

Reach the limit of what you can handle and surrender all what you are facing to me.

For I have come to give you life,

To give you life in its all fullness.

To experience life in all its fullness with me, is a measure beyond your knowledge,

For the way I define this is different.

I can see your struggles and heart ache.

It is my desire for you to move from this point, for you to surrender all to me.

Allowing me to soften your heart,

My precious one, are you ready to come closer to me, your creator?

melt your bitterness,
dissolve your resentment
and wash away your sorrow.

My precious one, I invite you to take time to recognise what is going on inside of you
To be honest with yourself, is fear driving your decisions?
Consider are you willing to take off your mask revealing your true self,
to be transparent to those around you.
It is my desire to witness my love ones support each other,
Significant change can happen when you encourage each other in alignment with my principles.
Growth together accelerates when you unmask and are honest with each other.

My precious one I know to face the reality of what you are dealing with,
This can be hard and painful at times.
Know that I will be close to you through this process.
Are you willing to identify how you are feeling?
Are you ready to move on?
I am here for you, always ready to listen.
It brings joy to me when you respond to my voice.

My precious one is it your desire to reach out to me, your creator?
To trust me and hold my hand?
Are you ready to talk to me about all that you are facing, going through and experiencing?
About what you are feeling deep down that normally you hold within, keep hidden?
Are ready to confess your sins?
Do you desire to walk close to me and feel my embrace?

Written by Ruth French 25th October 2024

Sources of Inspiration:

Isaiah 58: 8 – 9

6th October: Talk by Alisdair Longwill PS 119: 105; Romans 12:2; James 5:16

Word given in Church 'Things are not always as they seem at first, keep looking at it'.

20th October: Talk by Owen Green. Words given in Church:

'Jesus said I will give you life, life in all its fullness'. Our definition of life in its fullness is different to God's definition'.

Picture of God holding out his hand to us, maybe someone needs to reach out for God's hand and hold it tightly..... Maybe it is not just holding God's hand we need to hold, but feel his embrace.